Being a Royal Navy Mine Clearance Diver means you're part bomb disposal master, part sub-aqua specialist. Because there's only a handful of divers on any ship, you'll form close bonds with your team and be central to their – and your crewmates' – safety. This is one of the most physically demanding roles in the Royal Navy.

A Letter from the Chairman. Since the formation of the Royal Navy Clearance Divers Association (RNCDA) back in January 2012, the Association has seen its ranks swell to a healthy membership of close to 600 members. For the RNCDA to be a success, it relies on serving and former Royal Navy Clearance Divers along with our extremely generous benefactors, sponsors and associate members to support the committee and the aims and objectives of the Association.
